Professor Sasha Harmon (Indian Studies and Adjunct in History) has just been honored with an appointment to the Organization of American Historians Distinguished Lectureship Program. Serving concurrently as Distinguished Lecturers are UW History Professors Susan Glenn, James Gregory, and Margaret O’Mara. The OAH Distinguished Lectureship Program is a speakers bureau dedicated to American history. Its more than 400 participating historians have made major contributions to this popular field. OAH Distinguished Lecturers speak around the country every year. Each agrees to present one lecture on behalf of the organization each academic year and to donate his or her lecture fee to the organization.

Related Links:

- Alexandra (“Sasha”) Harmon OAH profile
- Susan Glenn OAH profile
- James Gregory OAH profile
- Margaret O’Mara OAH profile

People Involved:

- Susan A. Glenn
- James Gregory
- Margaret O'Mara
- Alexandra J. Harmon

News Category:

- Faculty and Staff
- Honors and Awards
- Lectures and Events

Related Fields:

- American
Source URL: https://history.washington.edu/news/2014/07/07/distinguished-lecturers