James Gregory wins Barclay Simpson Prize

Submitted by Eric W. Johnson on April 26, 2015 - 8:35pm

Professor James Gregory

The department congratulates professor James Gregory for winning the inaugural Barclay Simpson Prize for Scholarship in Public!

This prize, awarded by the University of Washington's Simpson Center for the Humanities, honors one of Barclay Simpson’s key convictions: to foster scholarship in the humanities as a public good. Gregory received the award in recognition of his tremendous work establishing and developing the Seattle Civil Rights and Labor History Project and the Labor Archives of Washington.

For more information, see: http://simpsoncenter.org/news/2015/04/james-gregory-barclay-simpson-prize...