Professor Emeritus Quintard Taylor--and BlackPast.org, the award-winning African-American history website he founded--received star billing in The Seattle Times’ Pacific NW Magazine last weekend.

You can check out the full article here: "Righting history: Every month is Black History Month at BlackPast.org." It contains details on Quintard's career, his current teaching and the history of BlackPast.org, as well as sampling of the rich historical and biographical information available on that site. You won't want to miss it.

Congratulations on yet another well-deserved honor Quintard!
