History Lecture Series Continues - Live Recording Here!

Submitted by Emma R Hinchliffe on January 18, 2018 - 1:58pm

Last night 2018's History Lecture Series continued with a stirring talk from Professor Laurie Marhoefer on 'Popular Protest in Nazi Germany: Re-thinking the Power of Public Opinion in a Police State' - a topic which touched on some of the challenges faced by today's activists in the face right wing extremism.

See the video here!

The series continues next week at 7:30pm in Kane Hall where Professor Arbella Bet-Shlimon will be talking on the Arab Spring. Limited tickets are still available through the Alumni Association's website. A live stream of the event will also be available here. Don't miss this great opportunity to learn from our award winning faculty!