

HSTAA 221

U.S. Environmental History

Nathan E Roberts

Tuesdays & Thursdays 9:30-11:20

Surveys the relationship between nature and human history, including the impact of the non-human environment on American history and the environmental effects of colonization, urbanization, and consumerism; the cultural construction of nature in different eras and its social implications; the sources and limits of modern environmental politics. Offered: jointly with ENVIR 221.

I&S

