"History, as nearly no one seems to know, is not merely something to be read. And it does not refer merely, or even principally, to the past. On the contrary, the great force of history comes from the fact that we carry it within us, are unconsciously controlled by it in many ways, and history is literally present in all that we do. It could scarcely be otherwise, since it is to history that we owe our frames of reference, our identities, and our aspirations."

—James Baldwin

James Baldwin, "The White Man's Guilt," Ebony, Vol 20 (August 1965), 47.

"We may want to keep in mind that deeds and words are not as distinguishable as we often presume. History does not belong only to its narrators, professional or amateur. While some of us debate what history is or was, others take it in their own hands."

—Michel-Rolph Trouillot

Michel-Rolph Trouillot, Silencing the Past: Power and the Production of History (Boston, 1995), 153.
